

BEFORE THE TAX COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF IDAHO

In the Matter of the Protest of)
[REDACTED],)	DOCKET NO. 18706
Petitioner.)	DECISION

This case arises from a timely protest of a State Tax Commission staff (staff) decision adjusting property tax reduction benefits for 2004. The State Tax Commission has reviewed the file and makes its decision based on a telephone conference with the petitioner and the documents in the file.

[Redacted] (petitioner) submitted a 2004 property tax reduction benefit application on March 22, 2004. The application was approved, and the petitioner received a benefit for payment of the property tax on her mobile home.

Idaho Code §§ 63-707 and 708 provide for audit of all claims and recovery of benefits that have been paid in error. During review of the petitioner's application and [Redacted] records, the staff discovered that ownership of the home was shared with another person. They were named equally in the title to the manufactured home.

Because the petitioner had received a benefit for a 100% ownership instead of a 50% ownership, the staff sent the petitioner a Notice of Deficiency Determination dated April 11, 2005, asking her to repay the over-paid portion of the 2004 benefit. The petitioner appealed and her file was transferred to the Legal/Tax Policy Division for administrative review.

A telephone conference was held on May 23, 2005. The petitioner said the other person shown in the title is her daughter. She said she did not intend for her daughter to become an owner in the mobile home and was not even aware her daughter's name was on the title. She explained her daughter was added as a signer on her bank account after her husband's death in 1986 on the advice of an attorney. She guessed that her daughter's name could have been added to the mobile home title at that time. She said her daughter is not a true owner and her name has now been removed.

Idaho Code § 63-701 describes the conditions that must exist for an applicant to qualify to receive circuit breaker benefits. Section 63-701 in pertinent parts state:

- (7) "Owner" means a person holding title in fee simple or holding a certificate of motor vehicle title (either of which may be subject to mortgage, deed of trust or other lien) or who has retained or been granted a life estate or who is a person entitled to file a claim under section 63-702, Idaho Code.

Idaho Code § 63-701(7)(c) . . . Any partial ownership shall be considered as ownership for determining initial qualification for property tax reduction benefits; however, the amount of property tax reduction under section 63-704, Idaho Code, and rules promulgated pursuant to section 63-705, Idaho Code, shall be computed on the value of the claimant's partial ownership. "Partial ownership," for the purposes of this section, means any one (1) person's ownership when property is owned by more than one (1) person or where the homestead is held by an entity, as set forth in this subsection, but more than one (1) person has the right of occupancy of such homestead. (Emphasis added.)

When the petitioner's benefit was paid, it was credited against the home's property tax as if the petitioner had a 100% ownership interest in the property. The petitioner qualified to receive a benefit for her portion of ownership only.

One might feel (for any number of reasons) that the statutory treatment is unfair or otherwise unreasonable. The Idaho Supreme Court has addressed such circumstances. The Court stated, in part:

Taxpayer urges that ambiguous language of the statute should be so construed as to avoid socially undesirable or oppressive results. It may be agreed, where legislative language is ambiguous, and other rules of statutory construction do not control, the court should consider social and economic results. But in this instance we do not find the statutes involved to be ambiguous; no exemption is granted and the legislative intent is to impose a tax on residents of this state measured by taxable income wherever derived. In such case our duty is clear. We must follow the law as written. If it is socially or economically unsound, the power to correct it is legislative, not judicial. John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. v. Neill, 79 Idaho 385, 319 P.2d 195 (1957). (Emphasis added.)

Herndon v. West, 87 Idaho 335, 339 (1964).

The Tax Commission finds the definition of “owner” in Idaho Code § 63-701 to be clear. Whether the petitioner intended for her daughter to be a partial owner or not, she became a partial owner when she was listed with her mother as owner on the title to the mobile home. Repayment of the over-paid portion of the benefits is appropriate.

The State Tax Commission is aware there is some potential this decision could cause a hardship to the property tax reduction applicant in certain circumstances. The proper jurisdiction to handle such hardship situations falls with the county commissioners pursuant to Idaho Code § 63-711.

WHEREFORE, the Notice of Deficiency Determination dated April 11, 2005, is APPROVED, AFFIRMED, and MADE FINAL.

IT IS ORDERED and THIS DOES ORDER that the petitioner pays the property tax benefit reimbursement of $167 for property tax year 2004.

DEMAND for immediate payment of the foregoing amount is hereby made and given.

An explanation of the petitioner’s right to appeal this decision is enclosed with this decision.
